My name is Imran Suleiman aka Imran Great. I am a software developer looking for a junior level developer job. I called myself a junior developer because I have no working experience but believe I can do stuffs that are mind blowing. Since after I made my mind that I want to work as a software developer, I have been putting over 14 hours a day studying software development using Javascript as my core language. I dropped out of school to focus fulltime on my software development career, while in school I run a CGPA of 4.25. I will appreciate any software development job either on-site or remote. believe me, I hardly find anyone as hardworking as I am when pursuing something that I really love, be it sport, courses, assignments and any task that you might think of. I currently can build fullstack application using NodeJS, MongoDB, ExpressJS, React and so many related technologies. When I said fullstack I really mean it, this include authenticating users, sending emails, accepting payments and so many advance stuffs that you can think of and I always studying and improving my skills.

EXPERIENCE

I have no experience.

EDUCATION

Ahmadu Bello University                                    2016 to 2019

Bachelor of Mathematics

Ahmadu Bello is one of the best universities in Nigeria. I actually dropped because what they offer is not what I want so I dropped out and start studying what I love online. I started from youtube then I began taking udemy online courses.
